39 NE 39th Street, Miami; (305) 573-1939
or nibahome.com

When they opened NiBa Home three years ago, Nisi Berryman and Beth Arrowood (alumnae of Holly Hunt's Miami showroom) envisioned it as the go-to store for interior designers looking for accessories for almost-finished projects. The 3,500-square-foot store strikes a nonminimalist note in the middle of Miami's slick design district, with throw pillows, lamps, screens, rugs and ceramic and glass pieces, all grouped in complementary colors.

UNION STREET GLASS URCHIN BOWL, $875

"Most of our customers are interior designers shopping for either a pristine modern interior or a traditional one in neutral tones," Ms. Berryman said. "They always want color in accessories. This footed bowl works in either interior environment, and it has a wonderful, not-perfect, organic shape with unusual texture. We sell a lot of these in a gorgeous turquoise blue color."

PLAYING CARD PLATES BY JOHN DERIAN, $65 EACH

"I think these postcard-size plates were really just too small. My customers want larger pieces that will make more of a statement."

HAND MIRROR BY BENJAMIN NORIEGA-ORTIZ, $225

"This is big enough to hang in a closet nook, or it could sit on a vanity. Benjamin is pretty well known around Miami — he did a couple of houses for Lenny Kravitz and he had a home here that was published in Metropolitan Home — so I think people will buy it."
